

New Environmental Consultancy Unit for AA Projects

Construction and Property Consultants, AA Projects, has established a new Environmental Consultancy Unit. The team of Chartered Environmentalists and Sustainability Consultants will produce Energy Performance Certificates and Display Energy Certificates as well as providing advice to clients on BREEAM, sustainable development and waste management plans.

AA Projects has previously offered a range of environmental services and has existing clients in a variety of sectors including commercial, education and the public sector. The increasing demand for these services has led to the development of a specialised unit that will focus solely on the environmental needs of clients.

The team is to be based in Manchester and headed by Chartered Environmentalist, Richard Murray. Richard says, "The new unit provides a great opportunity for us to strengthen our current range of environmental services and focus on meeting the increasing environmental needs of clients. It is an exciting time to be part of this new unit and we will be recruiting additional support into the team, to meet the current demand."
